Mrs. Sheeran has thoroughly remodeled her house, adding gothic windows, repainting it outside, painting and papering it inside, grading the grounds and on the whole making a very handsome residence. Dr. and Mrs. Mead and Prof. Critchlow of Philadelphia spent the summer with her. All who make their home with her recognize her talent in the culinary art and enjoy a home feeling under her hospitable roof.

Great Fall Weather.

Sun Overworking While Everyone Is Hoping for Rain.

"I haven't seen any record," said an old resident yesterday, "but I believe we have had more fair days this summer than ever before in the history of the State. As I remember it I have never seen anything like it before." Others who heard the remark agreed with it and the general opinion was that there has been less bad weather this year than ever before.

The dust on the country roads makes driving or automobile riding rather uncomfortable but the weather has been so fine most of those who were able to get out were willing to put up with the dust. The cottages at the ponds are still occupied as there have been few pleasant days during the whole season than late.

EAST STONEHAM.

Summer folks are all gone. Autumn leaves are coming.
J. F. Bolster is setting the monument on Maurice Bicknell's lot in the cemetery this week.

Maurice Bicknell has some of the handsomest yellow corn that he has ever raised on his Hillside farm, so he says.

Willie McKean is grading his door-yard leading into the barn with stone taken from his orchard and still has some left.

The Grand Chief of Pythian Sisterhood of Portland is expected to visit Minnehaha lodge, the 25th. Cake and coffee will be indulged in.

This place has been enveloped in smoke. We eat it for breakfast, dinner and supper, breathe it all night. For several days over Durgin mountain has called out all the able bodied men. Our postmaster, Charles Bartlett, lead off with quite a gallant crew of farmers, butchers, bakers, candlestick-makers, cracklers, cheese and coffee to fight the dreaded enemy, fire. I can't tell you the condition they came back in, but bath-tubs were necessary. It's a lamentable fact that our timber and woodland are endangered by some persons who are anxious for blueberries next year, or careless with matches or guns, which ever it is. The law ought to find them out and punish accordingly.

Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Sloan, whose home is on Mt. Zircoon, did not dare remain there because of a forest fire on Mt. Zircoon.

The business center of the town was menaced Monday by a new fire, which started on land owned by the Rumford Power Co., and burned to within three-quarters of a mile of it. It was believed a shift of the wind to the south would put the town in grave danger. The river lay between the fire and the business section. A crew of men under a fire warden built back fires and dug trenches, succeeding in getting into a center and fairly well under control. It burned over ten or fifteen acres of young timber.

This association meets each year in October, alternating between Bangor and Portland and Lewiston. Talks on Art.

By Vivian Akers.

No. 1.

Recently in certain art magazines which are aiming to give people as whole a better understanding and appreciation of the beautiful, a great many articles have been printed concerning the great international convention and exhibition of school art work in London. Representative work from twenty-five countries was exhibited and much to our regret American work fell far below the best examples.

There is no reason why we should expect any great results, for art instruction in our public schools is of very recent origin, and I have no doubt many people in our own town doubt the practicability of teaching it at all. They in a way are not to blame for their prejudiced opinions for no one has attempted to show its value and what comes before them in current magazines is little of real practical use.

So kind reader from time to time I will give you what few and incomplete suggestions I can, that if you are inclined to indulge yourself in a little reading you may find out for yourself the real value of drawing and art instruction for your children and perhaps you yourself may grow to see the real beauty of ordinary things in a different light.

Every citizen of the town gave this his attention and follows out what few things I may now and then suggest I am sure it will do much for all.

Some of the chair factory crew discovered the flames almost as soon as they were started and sounded the alarm. The house owned by the Bethel Manufacturing Co. was immediately attached to their hydrant and a large amount supplied by the Water Company, and it was only by prompt action that a serious fire was prevented. When the water was turned on the flames had reached within twenty feet of the large board piles in the rear of the chair factory, and but for the water from the chair factory hydrant the lumber and factory property, Mr. Bowler's hay and other property in the immediate vicinity could not have been saved.

It should be borne in mind that some of the cases therein reported were, at the time that mercury treatment was commenced, apparently at death's door and there can be no doubt that their lives were saved.

Economy in Use of Sugar—Cane sugar loses a great deal of its sweetness when boiled with fruit, and much more is required to produce the same results than would be the case were the sweetening added just as the fruit is taken from the fire.

SOUTH CHATHAM, N. H.

And the Lady Held the Horse While the Soldier Fought the Battle.

In this time of long continued drought when headlessness in the use of matches becomes almost criminal, what might have proved a most disastrous conflagration was prevented by the timely arrival of Hon. Albion Perry and B. M. Hill of the Boston Cooking School Magazine at a place on the Ridge road in Chatham, where a fire briskly burning in the grass and bushes by the roadside and continuing to the pine forests met them while driving with their wives.

Mr. Perry insisted that the fire must be quenched at once, and leaving their horses in the care of the ladies they proceeded to beat the fire out. Rev. L. C. Manchester was called upon for assistance and by strenuous effort on the part of the fire fighters the fire was at last extinguished after burning over a tract about twenty feet square. And all this by the careless dropping of a burning match after lighting a cigar or pipe. Mr. Perry, as well as Mr. Hill and Dr. Manchester, deserve the gratitude of a large number of residents of Fryeburg and other town owners of homes and timber land in the direct path of the incipient dangerous fire.

HELPFUL ADVICE

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness—you are too modest. You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., the things you cannot explain to the doctor. Your letter will be held in the strictest confidence. From her vast correspondence with sick women during the past thirty years she may have gained the very knowledge that will help your case. Such letters as the following, from grateful women, establish beyond a doubt the power of

to conquer all female diseases. Mrs. Norman R. Barndt, of Allentown, Pa., writes:

"Ever since I was sixteen years of age I had suffered from an organic derangement and female weakness; in consequence I had dreadful headaches and was extremely nervous. My physician said I must go through an operation to get well. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I took it and wrote you for advice, following your directions carefully, and thanks to you I am today a well woman, and I am telling all my friends of my experience."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, bearing-down, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration.

The "Last Supper"

Singular Story of the Masterpiece of the Old Monastery in Milan, Italy, hangs the famous "Last Supper" of Leonardo da Vinci. Like every masterpiece, the painting required many years of patient labor, and as a result of that labor, it is perfect in its naturalness of expression and sublime in its story of love. In addition to these qualities, it has an incident in its history that contributes not a little toward making it the great teacher that it is.

It is said that the artist, in painting the faces of the apostles, studied the countenances of good men whom he knew. When, however, he was ready to paint the face of Jesus in the picture he could find none that would satisfy his conception.

The face that would serve as a model for the face of Christ must be dignified in its simplicity and majestic in its sweetness. After several years of careful search the painter happened to meet one, Pietro Bandinelli, a choir boy of exquisite voice, belonging to the cathedral. Being struck by the beautiful features and tender manner that bespoke an angelic soul, the artist induced the boy to be the study for the painting of the face of Jesus.

All was done most carefully and reverently but the picture was as yet incomplete, for the face of Jesus was absent. Again the painter, with the zeal of a true lover of his art, set about in search of a countenance that might serve for the face of the traitor. Some years passed before his search was rewarded and the picture finally completed. As the artist was about to dismiss the miserable and degraded, wretch who had been his study, he chose the man looked up at him and said, "You have painted me before."

Horrified and dumb with amazement the painter learned that the man was Pietro Bandinelli. During those intervening years Pietro had been at Rome studying music, had met with evil companions, had given himself up to drinking and gambling, had fallen into shameful dissipation and crime. The face that now was the model for the face of Judas had once been the model for the face of Christ.

Bennett, a native of Greenwood, to the front as one of the progressive Oxford County men who now reside in New England's largest city. He was born in Greenwood, July 5, 1848, on a farm which his father, William Bennett, cleared about a mile and a half from beyond Greenwood City. His mother was Harriet Hersey Bennett, and she was the mother of nine children, the survivors being James H., Oscar of Norway, Charles of Sweden and Mrs. Augusta Kendall of Auburn.

James remained on the farm and went to school until he was 18 years old, when he went to Portland and worked for a short time. He paid diligent attention to his duties and his employer concluded that the prospect for the young man were better in Boston than in Maine's chief city. Accordingly Mr. Bennett went to Boston, where he commenced work with a milk dealer in Charlestown, remaining there a short time and then branching into the same business on his own hook. From a small beginning the trade has prospered until today Mr. Bennett is one of the largest individual dealers in milk in Greater Boston.

His success, as the East Boston Press recently said, has been entirely due to the Golden Rule; he treats his customers well, he deals with his competitors fairly, and in so doing he is honest with himself. He employs nine men, all of whom speak of him in the highest terms. The Bennett milk depot is at 288 Bremen street, East Boston, and there 350 cans of milk are handled every 24 hours. Five delivery wagons are used in the work of distribution, the greatest care being taken with the fluid to prevent impurity, the entire supply passing through absorbent cotton before being put in glass jars for distribution to customers.

Mr. Bennett has been twice married, his first wife, who was Etta Atwood of East Boston, having died about 16 years ago. His second wife was Lizzie Bagley, also of East Boston, to whom he was married about 10 years ago. They have no children. Mr. Bennett is a Republican in politics, but is not actively affiliated with any religious sect. His home is at 129 Brook street, East Boston. He is the only milk dealer in East Boston, a fact which speaks pretty loud for him when it is recalled that he has been in the business for about 40 years, during which time many other men have attempted to break into the field.

Why Did Gov. Cobb?

Why did Governor Cobb appoint Charles P. Hatch State Auditor and Warren P. Doughty, Lee D. Hodgkins, William E. Cross and Miss Birdena Bland assistants? Because their qualifications eminently fitted them to fill the duties of this important office.

Why were they so well fitted for the duties required of them? Because they were possessed of that important asset, a sound business education.

Where did they qualify themselves for the duties of their office?

Buckskin Sam Dead.

Famous Maine Guide Was a Scout With General Custer.

Buckskin Sam, (Samuel H. Noble), one of the most famous guides who ever directed a hunter to a deer lick in the Rangleley region, died last Friday in Mechanic Falls. Not only was he distinguished because of his career in the Maine woods, but also because of his prowess as an Indian fighter in his earlier days.

Buckskin Sam was born in Kennebunk on the 16th of June, 1838. His father was the landlord of the village hotel. In 1841 his father died leaving a widow and three children.

Sam continued to live with his mother until 1844. He was then bound out to N. True of Fayette where he stayed three years. At the age of nine he went to live with an uncle in Readfield. He attended the district school in Somerville.

In February, 1849, he started out to seek his fortune. With a bundle on his back he went to Thomaston where he shipped on a schooner bound for Norfolk, Virginia. After his return to Thomaston he shipped on a trader for South America. While ashore at Buenos Ayres, he took a ride on a half wild horse and was captured by the Puite Indians. Of this experience Sam told graphically in the story of his life which was issued from the Times printery in 1900.

In 1856 he made his escape from the Indians and returned to Buenos Ayres and from that time his life was one of adventure. In March, 1864, he enlisted under Gen. Custer as a scout or sharp shooter, and for the next three years he engaged in many Indian battles.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

Maine Dairying.

The Waterford Dairy Testing Association at its recent September meeting witnessed a large attendance of its members and an increasing interest among the dairy women of the town. It was one of the very best meetings for the year thus far.

President Leslie E. McIntire opened the session by expressing his renewed interest in the objects for which the association was organized and his belief that the members were receiving great benefits from the monthly operations of the dairy-testing methods being regularly and faithfully carried on by the agent of the association. One of the most enthusiastic dairymen present came about 10 miles, the first time since he became a member. He keeps 12 cows and lives so far away in Norway it is inconvenient for him to come to the meetings generally.

Prof. Merrill, State Dairy Instructor, being present, introduced the leading subjects of discussion and announced that Prof. Helmer Rabild, an expert in dairying from the Dairy Division, Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, would address the association on the results of the new departure in practical methods of dairying within a few years past.

Mr. Rabild said he would tell some of his observations and experiences in Denmark, his native country. He described the conditions of affairs in Denmark before the remarkable improvement in dairy methods began to develop. A few years ago that country was greatly impoverished from the effect of a destructive war. The people had no resource for raising money but from the land, which in Denmark is worth from $100 to $1,000 per acre, and taxes on the land were as high as $5.00 per acre. A great national debt had to be paid. A bright, progressive man or woman, it is said, conceived the idea of improving the herds of dairy cows by testing them for their cream producing power, and breeding out the poor cows, at the same time breeding from the best stock and making a profit in the dairy, where they had in most cases before only paid expenses.

This radical treatment of the dairy herds of Denmark had the most successful result. From 1884, when the average amount of butter per cow in Denmark was 112 pounds per year, in 23 years, or in 1907, the average per cow had increased to 224 pounds, a very astonishing increase of a "twining" of a single person in the beginning. It proved the great merit of scientific methods in breeding, feeding and manipulation of the herds and their milk product. In 13 years the number of testing associations increased to 532.

Denmark, he said, is famous for its dairymen in all its industries. It is at the top of all countries in per capita wealth. Appreciative brief remarks followed Prof. Rabild's address from Messrs. Skinner, Chas. Hamlin, Eugene Kilgore, Hersey, Hilton, Noble and Pres. McAllister.

Mr. Hilton asked, "What is the best ration for a dairy cow?" Prof. Rabild answered, "Clover-hay, corn fodder and peas and oats."

Prof. Merrill suggested that a meeting be held in East Waterford for the convenience of members living in that part of the testing-district. On motion of Mr. Kilgore it was voted that the next meeting be held on the first Wednesday of October at East Waterford. Committee to arrange for place of meeting, Messrs. Hilton and Price.
